FOREST THEATRE "SAVED"

The group now behind the Forest Theatre has demonstrated that it can be run at a profit and the people have proved beyond doubt that they wish the theatre to be preserved to the city and to the public in general.

With practical business men in charge and talented citizens ready to give their services, the financial status is assured.

However, some of the burdens should be lifted from the association. And the worst one, taxes on sixteen sewer connections, where one connection is sufficient, should be righted.

The city recently donated $50 from the general fund to aid the Bach festival, a new venture. Cannot the city donate a certain amount to the Forest theatre when the money is turned in for the back taxes? Surely there must be some way this open air theatre, known all over the world, can be preserved.

Taxes keep piling up and $300 more will be due this fall. But anyway we can be sure the old landmark will not go down before commercialism for at least a while.

A SLANDER ON OUR MISSION

Just who Ed Ainsworth, writing "Along El Camino" in the Los Angeles Times, is, we don't know, but we do suppose he was looking for publicity and he irked us so much, we are going to give him a small bit.

Ainsworth, it seems, made a trip to Carmel, and took up his column August 26th, telling how disappointed he was with the old Mission and finding fault generally with everything that has been done here. He is all wet.

The article says: "Thank heaven he (Father Serra) can't see his surroundings now," and "True, Father Serra is buried here within the old chapel. But to judge from the surroundings, nobody seems to care very much. Every feeble attempt at restoration of the crumbling mission seems to have been bungled. The new roof over the chapel, for instance, looks like it had been made to look as modern and ugly as possible. Of course, economy may have been necessary, but that doesn't excuse the glaring paint or the awkward lines."

How anyone with even average intelligence could fail to see the beauty and appreciate what has been done toward the restoration of the old Carmel mission is beyond us. And Mr. Ainsworth evidently did not have enough brains to see that the work is still in progress.

As to the shape of the roof, too bad he didn't live 160 years ago so that he could have regulated it at that time, since the roof absolutely follows the lines of the original.

The columnist probably didn't take

MR. PERRY NEWBERRY AND MISS IDA BROOKS TO WED

The majority of Perry Newberry's hosts of friends were surprised this week with the announcement of his coming marriage in Salinas Saturday morning to Miss Ida L. Brooks of Berkeley.

For 32 years Miss Brooks and Mr. Newberry have been friends, their acquaintance having begun in San Francisco when the former was with the Call ad the latter with the Examiner.

The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's brother, Charles S. Brooks, Judge Jorgensen performing the ceremony, and the bride and groom will go to Berkeley to remain until Miss Brooks completes here work there as public health nurse, when they will return to Carmel to make their home.

Mr. Newberry is one of those sturdy pioneers who have fought constantly against the encroachments of modernism; for several years he was editor of the Pine Cone which flourished under his management. He has written a number of books, taken parts in plays and promoted them and while his health permitted could always be found at the front when there was work to be done.

Mr. Newberry will be greatly missed while he is in Berkeley as his home has become a rendezvous for his friends.

Congratulations and best wishes are extended to Mr. Newberry and Miss Brooks.

INFECTED CYPRESSES HAVE BEEN CUT AND BURNED

Twelve infected cypress trees were found in a recent survey of Monterey county, extending from Carmel Highlands to the Watsonville Country club. All were immediately removed and burned. To prevent another outbreak, everyone is asked to keep a sharp lookout and report what they may think to be infection.

LEGIONAIRRES HELP POOR

The American Legion and the Auxiliary of San Francisco united to provide a funeral with flowers in Cypress Lawn cemetery for a little girl who died after a two-months' illness. Her parents had no money for the burial.

FOREST THEATRE BENEFIT BRINGS GOOD RESULTS

Demonstrating what can be done in Carmel when the people unite to put anything across, the crowd who was responsible for the play and fair staged as a benefit for the Forest Theatre announces that approximately $1,000 was cleared, thus "saving" the theatre for the public for awhile at least.

One of the most remarkable incidents was that expenses ran only to $165, although much labor and effort were required in getting things ready.

For the play, Inchling, the seats were sold out and 150 tickets were sold for standing room. This netted more than $300. and the fair netted more than $600.

Particular thanks must be given to Henry Dickenson, Hal Garrott, Loyd Weer and Byington Ford, who with many able assistants, devoted practically all of their time from the inception of the idea, to making it a success.

And it was a success from every standpoint. "Inchling" was one of the best things ever done in Carmel, and undoubtedly required a great deal of time on the part of the directors since the children were practically perfect in their parts. The costumes were lovely and were made by the women of the town at a very small expense.

The fair proved to be a regular "get together" and brought back the spirit of "old" Carmel.

All those who are interested in the school, whether parents or not, are urged to attend the meeting.

the trouble to learn what a wonderful restoration had been done here, and probably does not know that little but the walls remained at one time.

All of the finished work done at the mission, we maintain, is a credit to those who have had it in charge and Harry Downie has spent many hours in research in order to have things as nearly like they were originally as possible.

Carmel is far from being disinterested in the old mission, and her people are justly proud of the work that has been accomplished there so far.

PRE-ELECTION ABSURDITIES—

Pre-election insults to one's intelligence are getting thicker every day. The latest to reach our desk is a letter from "Citizens' Liquor Law Enforcement Committee." They claim to have made a careful study of local option measure No. 9 and give the following interpretation, which is a laugh:

"Every city, town, county, city and county, or territory outside of incorporated cities or towns, shall have the power to regulate, zone or prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages, within its limits."

"The real meaning of this statement is that the power to regulate, zone or prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages, within its limits."

"The real meaning of this statement is that the power to regulate, zone or prohibit would lie, not with the people, but with the elected legislative body of a city or county. Thus a mere majority of a town council or county board of supervisors could impose bone-dry prohibition on a community, disrupt legitimate business, agriculture and industry without a vote or voice of the people."

We, in our great ignorance, thought the elected bodies usually know what the people want. It would be something indeed, if th people had to go to the polls on every question. Any officer who deliberately goes against the mandates of the people will find himself out of office and that suddenly.

Another laugh in the same letter: "Prohibition, demonstrated time and again as unenforceable, would again create utter disregard of and contempt for the law."

Since when have liquor forces ever had any regard for law? For ruthlessness and absolute disregard of rights and law and order, their ilk can not be surpassed.

NATURE AND NEW DEAL

Quotations from President Roosevelt's radio speech delivered from the White House on September sixth.

"I have been on a journey of husbandry etc. I saw drouth devastation in nine states. I talked with families who had lost their wheat crops, lost their corn crops, lost their livestock, etc., etc. I saw cattlemen who because of lack of grass or lack of winter feed have been compelled to sell all their breeding stock, etc. etc. I shall never forget the fields of wheat so blasted by heat that they cannot be harvested, etc., etc. I saw brown pastures which would not keep a cow on fifty acres, etc."

Our deepest sympathy goes to those who have been financially hurt by Acts of Nature, over which they have no control; but the American, too, has been on a journey of husbandry—a long, long journey.

The American has seen devastation by the hands of man at the order of the NEW DEAL.

The American has had his cattle slaughtered, his pigs drowned, his breeding stock killed, his corn crops and wheat crops plowed under.

The American is seeing his individual liberty being taken away from him.

He has seen the wasteful spending of millions of his dollars upon useless projects.

The American has seen the number of unemployed, seen the New Deal allot millions for relief and viewed "with alarm" that the number of unemployed remains unchanged.

America sees that for the past four years she has been led by crafty Brain Trusters and rubber stamp congressmen towards Despotism, Sovietism.

The American realizes that his individual independence is in jeopardy and he will vote AMERICAN.

PUT BEE ON POSTMASTERS FOR COMING CAMPAIGN

Postmasters of the Eighth Congressional District, embracing San Mateo, Santa Clara, San Benito, Santa Cruz and Monterey counties, are squirming under the pressure of Farleyized politics.

Postmasters of the five counties have been told flatly to "come through" for the election of "The Honorable John J. McGrath and the Democratic ticket," according to documentary evidence obtained by the Examiner yesterday.

Each postmaster, that evidence shows, has been asked to drop five per cent of his annual salary into the war chest for "The Honorable John J. McGrath," incumbent congressman and Democratic nominee who is opposed by Alonzo L. Baker, Mountain View editor.

The flagrant attempt to squeeze job holders for the political advantage of "The Honorable John J. McGrath," incumbent, by one postmaster who fiercely resented the application of political pressure.

He made public the following form-letter, received by him as the campaign got under way.

"At a meeting held in San Jose on July 22, 1936, by the chairmen of the several County Committees and others of the Eighth Congressional District, I was appointed a committee of one in Santa Cruz County to ask for a subscription from the postmaster toward the election of the Honorable John J. McGrath and the Democratic ticket. The amount agreed upon was five per cent of one year's salary of each postmaster.

"Will you please cooperate with me so that I may make a creditable report?

"Please understand this is not a personal matter. I am merely cooperating with the committee.

"Make checks payable to the writer, or Mr. Claude J. Hirschey.

"(Signed) F. W. RUPPERT."

Odd Items from Mexico

By F. J. G. L.

It would, of course, be more interesting and far more informing to the reader were these notes put in consecutive form. This, however, is impossible, since the wealth of material prevents proper treatment in anything smaller than a heavy volume. For this reason it is well to remember that these scattered thoughts are nothing more than tiny examples of the enormous store of information at the disposal of those who seek it.

In all countries we find striking similarities between incidents chronicled in their several mythologies. These resemblances start interesting chains of thought in us and often we find ourselves building theories of association. In Mexico we are struck by certain beliefs almost identical with those of Europe and Asia and the mind naturally turns to tracing connections between the peoples of those continents. At the same time, we cannot help considering the possibility of a universal human imagination arriving at the same results.

The Christian, or perhaps more properly, Catholic belief in the immaculate conception is almost duplicated in the Mexican legend of the birth of Huitzilepochtli, the god of war. This is not very surprising since history gives us many examples of so-called divine relationships. It seems that the human male was not looked upon as worthy to have a hand in the production of a god. It was a right reserved for women.

Coatlicue, a lady-god, one of the originals and the mother of the Centzonhuitznahuas, the Four Hundred Southerners, became, later, the mother of Huitzilopochtli, the god of war, whose statue can be seen today in Mexico City. Instead of a dove, a bundle of feathers was the symbol of the creative god. They floated down and came to rest on the bosom of Coatlicue to make her the mother of the wargod. It is noticeable that the Mexicans felt no necessity that the mother of this god should be a virgin. In fact, her extensive maternal history seems to have been considered a recommendation. Her name means 'Mother-Earth' and she is also identified with the Dragon which sometimes symbolizes Earth.

For some reason the numerous children of this lady were angered at her condition. They gave voice to their feelings in no uncertain manner. Their rude remarks were cut short, however, by an enormous and fearful voice issuing from the womb of their lady-mother and commanding silence. It was Huitzilopochtli, yet unborn. One is obliged to trace a relationship here with the frequent volcanic disturbances of the country . . . Mother-Earth and the fierce voice of a war-like god.

There is no doubt that he was the war-god. He was born, armed to the teeth and immediately set about bloody occupations. Legends surrounding his birth remind one of Rabelais' description of the arrival of Gargantua. And there is a vague resemblance to the story of the planting of the Dragon's teeth which grew from the bosom of Mother-Earth in the form of a well-equipped army.

The god of war was also known at the Terrible God and some legends have it that he brought the Mexicans to Mexico. The only road to heaven for Mexicans was honor in war. The dead warrior would 'pass through the oGlden Gates of Morn' to the Palace of Dawn.'

The god of war is a high god in Mexico, therefore, as the leader of warriors to their reward. Blood in Mexico, as everywhere else at different epochs, seems to have been one of the requirements of salvation. One of the first acts of this war-god was the killing of his sister, probably to show the stuff of which he was made and to test his weapons. He has been directly responsible for much of the history of Mexico and even today we may trace certain results of his strength. A place in the sun through death on the battlefield, swimming to heaven through a sea of blood, is not a new idea. It is old but by no means weak with age.

The biblical account of the Tree of Knowledge in the Garden of Eden is mixed somewhat in Mexican mythology, with the story of the Fall of the Angels. The Mexican Garden of Eden was the abode of the gods, a paradise, and the story is a repetition of 'Paradise Lost.'

Itzpapalotl, like Eve, was female. Her name means 'Knife' and 'Butterfly'. The name is symbolic of the Soul and the Knife of Sacrifice. She is often represented as butterfly wings edged with stone knives. Her face was made up like those of Mexican court ladies who wore chalk and 'party-patches' of rubber. She has jaguar claws and sometimes uses a skull instead of a face, with a knife in her nose. It is well that often she wears a magic cloak which renders her invisible except for her claws.

This interesting lady lived with the other gods in the Garden of Delight. One day, oddly enough, she plucked some roses and the tree, possibly suffering from shock, broke and began to bleed. There was anger in heaven and many of the gods were thrown out by Tonocatcutli and his wife who were supreme. Some of the outcasts were sent to the earth and others went to hell. Amongst those who suffered the same fate as Itzapaplotl were Huitzilopochtli, the war-god, and Tezcatlipoca, the great magician.

A certain logic is to be seen in the Mexican worship of the gods of Mict-

Dog Daze

SIR PUPPY POOCH

Sniff! Sniff!

"Who's there?"

"Justice."

"Justice who?"

"Justice as soon as the family goes out I'll dig up that old bone in the front lawn."

I saw a funny looking new dog in the village the other day. He had a face exactly like some human beings I've seen.

And that reminds me, many of our summer vistors pick up a kitten or puppy because they think it's cute, then when their vacation's over (the person's, pal, not the animal's,) they pack up and leave their dependent little friends behind to scratch for themselves. Of course, we don't mind scratching so much, in fact that is the most regular exercise we get. But after all, we ARE dependent on those great beings we admire and trust so much, for food and water, companionship and protection. Wouldn't it be a doggy idea to ring up the Pound, every County and City has one, instead of leaving us to starve or die of thirst? Some people seem to think just because we're animals we can hunt for ourselves. Of course there are garbage cans, but most of them have covers that are impossible to get off, although I know a Russian wolf hound who was quite expert at it. I won't mention his name. It might embarass him because he got plenty to eat at home. Water is almost impossible for a dog or cat to get, especially in the cities. And if a hungry kitty catches a bird, there's an awful howl from the citizenry. I don't like to see the pretty birdies killed either, although our human friends kill living things to eat, too.

We're called domestic pets today, but many centuries ago, we were in a wild state and human beings deliberately took us and domesticated us, placing us in an entirely different state. Of course this was done by slow degrees, but none the less our two-legged friends interfered with nature's means and ways of caring for her inhabitants. In domesticating the cat and dog they made a decided change from our free out-door life. We have been taken into humans' homes, share their food and sometimes even their clothing. Therefore, I think, as they have made us so dependent on them, and on civilized conditions, their responsibility in us increases accordingly. How about it, pals?

Well, business is digging up. I have two more yaps on my desk right now. The first is from Mr. Toughy Wigglebottom. Quote: I spotted an adorable golden cocker the other day. Unlicensed, she was dancing along in fine feather. But being in the first flush of puppyhood, she wouldn't notice me, an old timer.

Anyway, I followed her, and sniffing from afar, I found out that one of those dogapes from Hollywood had her paw-print on a screen contrac!

Shiver my whiskers, if it dosn't make me skin my teeth to see our beautiful young pups, one by one, being lured from us where dog life is free from care, to that iniquitous Slave Market! Brother Canines, something ought to be done about this.

We should rise up on our hind legs and howl a united protest against humans teaching puppy girls to be artificial. Teaching them to be full of tricks!

We who have any dog intelligence know that a puppy should be allowed to express her own little individual ways. that are natural to her and so fetching. Not taught to be a vain, obtrusive show-off, so that when she grows up she won't be received in the 'well-bred class' of society.

Just think of our little ladies being trained to 'Stand on your head.' 'Lie down and roll over.' 'Sit up and sneeze,' and a dozen other asinine, not canine, tricks that make fools of them before non-intelligent humans.

Curses in yelps! Let us get hounds to ferret out these theatrical scouts and chase them from our peaceful, respectable village! Yours doggedly, Toughy Wigglebottom."

Dear Mr. Wigglebottom: I can tell by the growl of your letter that you're a wise old hound with an old-fashioned scent in the end of your snozzel. And I'm afraid your ears have flopped too far to the left, for most of us pooches simply love to do tricks for our masters, as long as they are patient with us, and give us a bite when we perform correctly, and as for flattery, we just lap it up! I confess I'm extremely conceited about the tricks my mistress taught me. I can smoke a pipe, salute, and wink my left eye. As for the four-legged dames who go to Hollywood, just think of the nice, juicy bones they get, and they're not bones of contention either, Mr. Wigglebottom.

My second complaint is a short and snappy yip from Miss Petta Pooch. "Dear Sir Puppy Pooch, I think it's snoutrage that a perfect lady can't romp on the beach without the necessity of having a chaperone! Yours in reverse, Petta Pooch."

Dear Miss Pooch: As your name is the same as mine I wonder if you aren't some relation, distant or otherwise? If you are, I'll meet you under the spreading kelp Sunday night and chaperone you myself.

Eugenia Leontivich, who is the talk of London just now, is more proud of her long-distance calls from her husband, Gregory Ratoff, than she is of being London's biggest sensation. Ratoff, one of Hollywood's brightest stars, calls his wife every single week, and it costs him a mere 5,000 yearly. Wonder what his salary is? Or maybe he sends it collect?

Leopold Stokowski, the great composer, has recently signed a Hollywood contract and will soon be heard in the Picture Colony, and we hope, through that medium, it won't be long before we will have him with us in Carmel.

If any of you saw and enjoyed "Under Two Flags," and "Bengal Lancer," you will be glad to see "Four Men and a Prayer," when it is completed for the silver screen by Wallace Sullivan, Pulitzer prize writer. That it will cost over $1,000,000 to produce is nobody's business. Or should I say, it's everybody's business?

Working on the sets in Hollywood or even hanging around just waiting to be called is the hottest of jobs, even though a tremendous wind machine keeps cold air circulating around the overheated stages. Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen keep the tropical sweat from ruining their make-ups by patting their own faces, (not each other's, silly,) with chamois skins, wrung in ice water. Gloria Stuart keeps a piece of ice wrapped in a woven wash cloth in her make-up box. She rubs her wrists, throat and back of her neck with this home-made ice-bag at frequent intervals. She also says she often holds her wrists under cold, running water which brings her relief. Then Binnie Barnes has invented a unique and very simple scheme of keeping cool by making pads of make-up tissues and placing them under the hair of the forehead, around the ears and at the nape of the neck. This, she claims, absorbs perspiration and prevents the hair from losing its curl.

Let's go down to the beach and get a permanent wave.

SUNBEAMS

ATTENTION, COMRADES, PARLOR PINKS and RADICALS

Comrade Earl Browder, the head of the Communistic Party in America and who is in direct touch with the Russian Soviets, has placed his stamp of approval upon Franklin Delano Roosevelt and the New Dealers. He could not consistently do otherwise. He owes them a debt of gratitude and appreciation. The Communagog Party, bearing the label of the Democratic Party, has given every comfort and encouragement to Communism and Communists. It has fed our hungry agitators, given lucrative employment to thousands of our most active organizers and protected every Communistic Agitator who has run foul of the law. Mr. Roosevelt and his New Dealers have set aside and negated the deportation of undesirable aliens whenever it appeared that they were guilty of subversive activities. Our beloved Comrade, Madame Perkins, has never failed us. She has earned our gratitude and loyalty. And we must not forget another Lady the EXALTED ONE, who has so consistently served our cause. With the help of the Communagogs we may with bright hopes expect the consumation of our GOAL, the everthrow of the Republic at an early date with plenty of bloodshed, loot, ravishings, reprisals and victims. All Communists and sympathizers be advised. Defeat Landon. His election would spell disaster to us. Do everything you can to obstruct industry. Increase Taxation, spread class hatred and hasten bankruptcy. Heed the advise of Comrade Browder and support the New Deal. Its cause is our cause. Keep up the work of contaminating the boys and girls, deride religion and promote vice by sneering at virtue and home influence. Be not concerned about the parlor pinks turning yellow. Use them now and we can expend them later. The thing is to win. The firing squad can easily eliminate the doubtful ones. Hasten Chaos and help our cause—support the New Deal.

REAPING THE WHIRLWIND — THE NEW DEAL HARVEST

Strikes, riots, picketing and unrest everywhere. Not for increase of wages, shorter hours or better working conditinas but the harvest of the New Deal class hatred propaganda.

Communistic agitators stirring up industrial strife, obstructing navigation, the garnering of crops and the transportation of food. Protected and encouraged by the New Deal sophists and demagogues.

Twenty million people on Relief, poisoned by parasitism and becoming confirmed governmental dependents.

Twelve million unemployed.

Thirty five million dollar debt.

More than 870,000 people, exclusive of the Army, Navy and Marine corps, on the government payroll. An increase of 260,000 under the New Deal. Banks bulging with deposits, not money, legal tender, but government bonds, which cannot be sold elsewhere. The banks have to take them.

Contrary to Mr. Roosevelt's statement that the national credit is sound. the facts are, unfortunately, that our credit is precarious and approaching collapse. Government bonds find no market, are not considered desirable. The $340,000,000 of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation is not in money but government bonds which are not liquid and readily negotiable. Taxation rising by leaps and bounds. Food prices soaring. Rents going up. Price of living constantly on the increase. Wages and salaries remain static.

The ranks of labor torn with dissention and bitter animosities. The American Federation of Labor is facing extinction. The New Deal Radicals have conspired to its downfall.

The Youth of America being perverted by Communistic indoctrination under the auspices of agencies sponsored by the New Deal and supported by government funds. An unchallengeable fact.

America is but one stride behind France and Spain. The New Deal theme of Hate, Class Cleavage and invective against industry has sown the seed of Revolution and Massacres. More than fifteen billion dollars of the people's money being squandered in political projects—to bribe voters—to perpetuate poverty and to create discord and hasten Chaos.

Throughout America, honest, upright, worthy citizens are contemplating the organization of a means of defense. Against what? The Scourge, the pestilence, and the Peril created by the New Deal.

The Goths and Vandals have, under the guise of the New Deal, gained entrance to our shores. They have looted the Treasury, wasted our resources, and worse, they have infected us with the virus of degeneracy, indolence and greed. These are the conditions. Contravert them if you can. It is not a question of Democrat or Republican. The New Deal is neither, it is Communistic, has the complete approval of Earl Browder and other leading Communists. This is also unchallengeable. Every Communistic Agitator and Organizer is a New Deal champion and New Deal protected. Challenge that if you can.

Now how are you going to VOTE? For America, prosperity and happiness or for pandemonium, for civil war, to repeat here what is going on in France and Spain today? Party lines are out of it. The November election has for its issue; shall America survive or become a shambles, seething with mob violence, ravishing of women, burning of homes, the sanguinary sacrifice of Youth? Make light of it if you will but that is the issue. Landon and Knox, home, country, honor, honesty, God —and our Native Land.

LET US SPRAY

Along lonely trails and in the forests one may occasionally see a bushy tailed, white striped little animal which the naturalists have named as the Mephitis Mephitica. It is commonly known as the skunk. When alarmed or molested this pretty little creature has an effective means of defense. It has a Spraying Fluid which is peculiarly offensive. The New Dealers, evidently, have been reading up on the Skunk technique. The honorable Harold Ickes, sometimes referred to in irony as "Honest Harold" has been emulating the little wood pussy by releasing foul inuendos against those whom he bears malice. His attack on Mr. Hearst was quite the method and manner of Mephitis Mephitica. It may be that Mr. Ickes has many characteristics of this little nocturnal creature common to our woodland. He delights in spreading foul rumors. Mr. Landon has also received a bouquet from the Ickes squirt gun. Totally false, that does not perturb Harold, it was intended to create prejudice and wrong impression. As the campaign progresses we shall have more of this sort of atttack. Skunk warfare. The New Dealers when annoyed throw stink pots. Mr. Farley, no doubt, had this in mind when he said that it was going to be a "Dirty Campaign." To date, all of the filth, foulness and false rumors have come from the New Dealers. Republicans and honest Democrats have no patience with such tactics. They are concerned in Saving America.

"SWEET ARE THE USES OF ADVERSITY"

Before the New Deal, so-called, or its more truthful title of Exploiters of Adversity, one might get the impression that human suffering and misfortune met with slight consideration and if any notice taken at all it was to gloat or heap additional woes upon the unfortunate victims. That is the New Deal, or the Exploiters of Adversity version. However, history and fact show that in every calimity of the past, and there have been many, the American people, charitable organizations and individuals responded promptly and magnificently. They did not do it with well publicized ostentation or did they demand of the sufferers that they Register Right and Vote Right under the threat that if these requirements were not met Relief would be withheld. That is the New Deal, or better to express it, the Exploiters of Adversity's method. No one doubts the devastating disaster of the Drouth. It is a national catastrophe. Thousands have been impoverished. Whole states stricken with want and mistery. Now enters the New Deal or the Exploiters of Adversity. It becomes their pet project. It supplies as they use it a justification for other brazen exploitations. They make great to do over their deep concern and throbbing benevolence. The New Deal, or the Exploiters of Adversity, will not permit any one to starve. Having announced their generous intentions they will set about to organize a vast political machine, hundreds of greedy, grasping political parasites will find profitable employment in handling the DOLE. Those getting Relief will have it forcibly brought to their notice that the New Deal, or the Exploiters of Adversity, are the dominating spirits back of the Relief Expedition. Before they finish the New Dealers will make the Drouth havoc nation wide. Millions will be wasted, squandered, in providing the minimum of Relief. The Drouth will be capitalized as a Political windfall. Every sufferer will have a score or more of Politicai leeches administering to his or her wants. For all this the Public will pay. Those who have experienced misfortune will receive a miserable pittance . That is the Exploiters of Adversity's record.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

In all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, September 13, on the subject "Substance."

The Golden Text will be: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Hebrews 11:1). Bible selections will include the following passages from Proverbs 8:12, 14, 20, 21: "I wisdom dwell with prudence, and find out knowledge of witty inventions . . Counsel is mine, and sound wisdom: I am understanding; I have strength . . . I lead in the way of righteousness, in the midst of the paths of judgment: That I may cause those that love me to inherit substance; and I will fill their treasures."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "When understanding changes the standpoints of life and intelligence from a material to a spirituial basis, we shall gain the reality of Life, the control of Soul over sense and we shall perceive Christianity, or Truth, in its divine Principle" (p. 322).

LEAKY MUFFLER

Carbon monoxide gas expelled from the sylinders must pass through the muffler to escape and for this reason it is important that the muffler and connections be kept in good repair, according to the Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. Leaks anywhere between the engine and the rear end of the exhaust pipe may allow poisonous gas to enter the passenger compartment, causing illness and even endangering life.

EYES need PROTECTION, TOO!

EYES are like traffic police that tell us when light is weak or good, glaring or diffused as daylight. If your eyes squint, for example, don't neglect this warning. For squinting is often a telltale signal of poor lighting.

Guard your children's sight and your own, with better light. Whether it is for study, playing games, reading or sewing, make sure there is plenty of light, free from glare and well diffused throughout the room and not just parts of it.

Remember, better light is one of the best preventives of eyestrain, headaches and defective vision. Don't take any chances with improper lighting in your home. Ask for a free check-up of lighting conditions in your home today. There is no obligation.

Don't TAKE A CHANCE ON POOR LIGHTING!

● *Would you like to know whether your table and floor lamps give enough light for safe seeing. You may have your lighting checked by one of our home lighting representatives without charge or obligation. You are entitled to this free service. THE GARDEN OF LIFE

Life is like a garden,
That we are wandering thru;
Around us fragrant blossoms—
Perhaps a thorn or two.

Above us, God's blue canopy,
From whence the sunbeams fall
On man, and flowers, and weeds alike—
Kind Nature's gift to all

The budding blossoms kiss the dew,
That falls, while dawn awakes,
And with the glow of sunshine,
Their nodding welcome makes.

And every floweret is a smile,
A message from God, you'll see
Of love, and joy and gladness,
He sends, this way, to thee.

So keep on smiling in the morn,
And smiling still at night;
When trouble on a smile is borne,
It makes the burden light.

And if when stormclouds gather,
Depressed, we shed a tear,
Remember soon through brightening skies
Life's rainbow will appear.

For the heart with love for Nature,
And joy in the bird's sweet song,
And a love for beauty about us,
Enriches a whole life long.

So through this garden all may go,
And kneel at Nature's shrine,
And listen to the anthems
Of the Heavenly choir divine.

BOY SCOUT COUNCIL TO MEET AT APTOS

G. Watters is the president of Watsonville The following Scouters will go from Carmel: H. S. Crossman, L. Levinson, Pat Hudgins, W. L. Gaddum, Byington Ford, H. Brownell, C. L. Berkey, H. E. SLUGGISH STARTER

When a starter is sluggish although the battery is fully charged, the Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association suggests that search for the cause include the following possibilities: poor contact at battery terminals; loose generator or starter wire connections; dirty starter commutator.

BRANDING DANGEROUS CARS PROVES OF BENEFIT

In a European country, the cars of motorists convicted of flagrant violations of traffic laws are painted with an emblem, as a warning to other drivers. It is said that this practice, newly started, has caused an appreciable decline in dangerous driving, as motorists naturally want to avoid the embarassment and publicity the emblem gives them.

A great many thousand American motorists should have their cars so branded.

The worst class of offenders consists of those who push the throttle to the floor board as soon as they get out of sight of an officer. Excessive speed, and there are times when 15 miles an hour is excessive, is responsible for more deaths than any other driving violation.

Passing on hills and curves and "meandering" through traffic are also potent causes of death, injury and destruction. On a myriad tragic occasions, a driver has tried to save a needless minute at the cost of a life.

What America needs is a reformation of all its classes.

ODD ITEMS FROM MEXICO)

lampa or hell. These gods had the power of doing harm. They should be made friends. Mictlantecutli, the Lord of Hades, is portrayed, sometimes, as a skeleton, white with yellow spots as if newly skinned. Around him are the symbols of the witches' cross-roads, owl, mummy-bundle, grass and a smoking dish of human hearts. He is said to look for souls in the shape of a spider, with his head down. He is next in position to Tonacatecutli, the Lord of the Sun, and wears a crown. He is to be compared with Lucifer and his relationship to the Jewish Almighty.

Ever since these gods were disgorged from the Garden of Delight, they have ruled in Mexico. Tonocatacutli, the supreme god, receives little or no notice. It seems that he is not expected to pay much attention to the ways of the earth. He is so far above it that it would be ueseless to bother him about mundane things about which he would probably know nothing. Besides, there are other gods, in hell and on earth, whose proximity and innate desires create in them a natural interest in the ways of humans.

The gods of Mexico are, mostly, the gods of Hades. They are to be feared and propitiated and made use of. The Garden of Delight, ever since the Fall, does not bulk largely in Mexican mythology. Quetzalcoatl, the Culture-God, the really great god of the Mexicans seems in no way connected with the Fall or with Hades. He came out of the West and he set sail Westward, when his time was come, in a boat of coiled serpents. He was white and wore a beard and was learned and kind. He seems to typify the brighter, more practical, more intellectual side of the Mexican mind.

CARMEL REUNION BRINGS LEARNED MAN TO TOWN

A reunion of three generations of an old New England family now living on the west coast, included David Wallace Swift and his brother, Howard, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Willard at Camino Real and Fourth.

Mr. David Swift, having lived in various cities of China, is now with the Immigration bureau in San Francisco as interpreter of Japanese, which he speaks, reads and writes with ability second only to one other person in the United States. Also, he has a "working knowledge" of Chinese and Russian.

Mr. Swift studied for an officer's degree in the navy and served in the World War. His early years were spent in Tokio where his parents lived his father being professor of English in the Imperial university, where he was three times decorated by the emperor.

Said one apple to another "lead me not into fermentation."

Californiana from Old Files and Other Sources

For Californiana this week we chose some data sent out by the Federal Writer's Project which is now compiling the American Guide, 8-volume handbook of America:

In the old stage days of the 60's the San Jose-Santa Cruz run was the toughest in the region. The toughest driver on this run was "Cockeyed" Charlie Parkhurst. Charlie was lame on one leg, had a face that scared children, and could outswear and outdrive any man in the region.

Cockeyed Charlie always guaranteed his passengers a thrill by tearing down Mount Madonna grade, or the Mount Charley road, with the steel rims of the wheels crunching on the very edge of dizzy ravines. He could run both wheels of his clumsy stage over a two-bit piece in the road, but he always arrived on the dot with his passengers safe. Old timers say that often the passengers got out, made a bee-line for the bar and lifted a hooker of whisky with trembling hands to restore their nerve. When Charlie died Santa Cruz range lost one of its most colorful characters, but it was found that he had been guarding a secret all his life. Startled friends discovered that he was a woman, a woman who got tired of skirts and became rougher than the roughest. Charlie thereby hung up a record of being the first woman to vote in the state of Caliifornia. No relations ever came to claim Charlie's body. Who she was and why she masqueraded as a man is still a mystery.

The early Spanish padres wrestled with the devil in many forms while carrying on their missionary work, according to early mission records now being unearthed by the WPA Writers' project. One of the more deadly forms the devil took was that of a curious and powerful drink brewed by the Indians, which made the strongest drinks of the white strangers seem like milk in comparison. "Pispibata" was the name of this early "old-fashioned". Its brewers vouched for the potency of their product, but no comment has been handed down to posterity on its age or mellowness. They simply dropped powdered shells, tobacco juice, and cherries into a pot and boiled it until is was practically solid. Upon its having cooled, the redskin would immerse his finger in it and lick. Three licks induced a gentle trance, more brought on a stupor. Old timers could think of nothing to compare with pispibata except a concoction of 120 proof rum and opium.

BALANCED WHEELS

Rapid travel can not be properly maintained if wheels are out of balance, according to the Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. This applies to rear wheels as well as front. Wheels out of balance tend to set up a bobbing or bouncing action and cause undue wear on the steering mechanism.

Fact and Fancy

By Ye Country Correspondent

We went to the Fair and saw—Dorothy Chapman going strong with her Posy booth. Gorgeous flowers and the efficient Dorothy to aid one in their selection.

The civic minded Mrs. Karl Rendtorff as usual making a success of her book stall. However there is nothing new about that for she always makes a huge success of any thing she undertakes.

Rene Moore was putting on a book worm act there and emerged with an ominious looking volume. Delving into economics Rene?

Frank Jacott was hobnobbing with Mrs. A. F. Chidester and the English Bull dog, enorm, in the ice cream booth. We don't know just what part the bull dog played but perhaps he was Monsieur the Sampler and gave a lick of approval to each ice cream cone before it was delivered.

Hildreth Masten was making a go of things at the Country Store. One couldn't resist that bundle of pep and her extraordinary wares.

There were three brave men at the Shooting Gallery risking their lives. We know cause we saw Frances Hudgins trying to hit the bull's eye all the while complaining that no bull could possibly have such a tiny eye. It was a gnat's eye to her.

Joe Catherwood was tempting a crowd around his gaming table and doing a good job of it. His hair was getting curlier and curlier and looking cuter and cuter. Bingo they called the game he was trying to control, but Bingo, the bottom kept falling out releasing the numbers just at the very moment you were about to collect the dividend. Trust Joe to keep astride of the times.

However we saw one winner there. Maud DeYoe with beaming countenance gathered in the kale.

Lee Gottfried panted over the wild dice running rampant in a cage. One of those games you put your money on four, and three fives appear, then with strained look and much determination, you place your bet on five, and three twos look you in the eye.

What about that crap shooter Jimmie Regan? 'Tis said there were no sevens or elevens on his dice when he counted on them.

The ducking ducks were fun and at times wore unexpected necklaces and went home to use the various tummies for experimental stations.

If you wanted to know the past, present and future, there was Mr. Hasty who extricated you from a dark past, skipped over a turbulent present, and predicted a flourishing future. If you went with mental morbio you were sure to come away with the buoyancy of youth and full of hope etc.

Everybody's friend, Pete Peterson, and his grand flock of Sea Scouts were an inspiring sight. They were gathered around Kay Clark's nifty sail boat built for half a person. This trim craft caused many envious and favorable comments.

Pat Hudgins and Dickie Dickson were proudly meandering around the Cub Acorn and they have a right to be proud not only of the Cubs (who have multiplied five times during the past year) but also the Cub Mothers who have been such top notchers. They were all working for the Fair by the way.

Louie Levinson was seen nursing a Scout Camp along with bits of string and large safety pins. "Where there's a will there's a way," says Lou.

Ruth Austin's dancers were a credit to her and we realize the untiring effort that was behind it all.

Then there was Allen Knight's Cookoo Orchesra persuading the anxious feet to waft over the rough boards. When there's rythm in the air who cares?

What luck for the Community to have that energetic untiring Bill Bensberg for the manager of the Fair this year and what a great success he and his gang made of it.

Everyone who has the interests of Carmel at heart must be delighted with the unselfish and energetic efforts to preserve one of Carmel's oldest and most cherished landmarks.

FRANK KNOX STARTED HIS LIFE AS NEWSBOY

Frank Knox was born in Boston, Mass., on New Year's day, 1874. His fother was of Scotch descent, mother English. He was 11 years old when he got his first job in Grand Rapids, Mich., where he had moved with his parents. He carried papers for the Grand Rapids Herald. He has a Bachelor of Arts degree from Alma College, Mich. It was there he met Annie Reed, whom he married and whom today he credits for his success and for his knowledge of fundamental economics. It was she who saved $500.00 out of his $15.00 a week salary making it possible for Frank Knox to start out as a newspaper publisher.

As a man he has had a distinguished career in three fields: newspaper work, the army and politics. He rose from newspaper carrying to one of the highest journalistic posts in the nation—publisher of the Chicago Daily News.

As a soldier he first fought under Col. Theodore Roosevelt as a Rough Rider in the Spanish-American War. During the World War, although over age, he got in as a buck private and ended as a major in the famous 78th division A. E. F. He is now a Colonel of Reserves.

He was always an active supporter, locally and nationally, of Theodore Roosevelt.

What Colonel Frank Knox says President Roosevelt and the New Deal Party have done: "Wasted billions in taxes: foresworn the constitution; adopted autocracy; regimented initiative; lowered standard of living; lost public confidence; sought to control business; made war on the supreme court; permitted relief graft; headed country towards bankruptcy.

Acceptance speech of Frank Knoxs

"I have learned the important lesson that the greatest achievement of any man is service to his fellow citizens. In this spirit of service I accept the call of my party.

"I pledge my loyalty to the principles of the Republican party. I pledge my loyalty to the policies laid down at the Cleveland convention. I pledge myself to the principles of sound and honest government. I pledge my personal loyalty to that great Governor of a prairie state, the next President of the United States, the Honorable Alf Landon."

It's a little thing—this model of Cammander and Mrs. M. J. Peterson's new home being built in Hatton Fields, but it is certainly beautifully done, and may be seen at the Monterey County Trust and Savings Bank on Dolores. Lewis J. Rothe is the architect and made the model. The house proper is going along nicely and will soon be ready for occupancy.

"We condemn the improper and excessive use of money in political activities."— Democratic Platform of 1932.

"We do want you to be absolutely harboiled, if you find any local person within your own states who is trying to get political advantage out of the relief of human needs, and you will have the backing of this Administration 100 per cent, even if you hit the biggest political boss on the head, in carrying out this general program."

—Franklin D. Roosevelt, remarks to State Directors of the National Emergency Council, February 2, 1934.

Performance

"I hand you herewith a list of doctors in Ohio county. Kindly separate the Democrats and the Republicans and list them in order of priority so we may notify our safety foremen and compensation men as to who is eligible to participate in case of injury."

(From a letter written by the State Relief Administrator of West Virginia to a county relief Supervisor, as read before the Senate by Senator Holt, Democrat of West Virginia.

"Dear Committeeman: Contact all houses in your division and get the names of all men on relief, also those holding WPA jobs. Urge them to register Democratic on March 26 or else lose their jobs.

Sincerely yours,
"Signed. Charles McDonald"

"Reproduced from a photostatic copy of a letter signed by Democratic leader of the 14th ward in Philadelphia on March 14, 1936, ten days before the Pennsylvania primary registrations, as printed in the Philadelphia Inquirer of March 28, 1936.)

"I am sure you know that I cannot be held responsible for the acts of dumb politicians."

(Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator, in reply to a senatorial request for an investigation of alleged relief irregularities, March 5, 1936.)

TO THE PUBLIC

The Carmel Pine Cone, in an editorial, in its issue of Sept. 4th advises the voters of this district to write in the names of William P. Silva and Kent W. Clark on the ballot in the coming election Sept. 14th for members of the Sanitary Board. This suggestion was made without consulting the undersigned.

We are not candidates for membership on the board and we strongly urge that the present board be unanimously re-elected in order that they may complete the work they have begun in connection with sewage disposal.

At a meeting of the Sanitary Board on August 13th, Chairman Hugh Comstock asked William Silva, Joseph Burge and Kent Clark if they would serve as a committee with power to employ an engineer who not only had installed outfall sewer systems but who also believed in their efficiency to make a complete survey and report his findings to the board. They replied they would be glad to do so.

Up to the present time no actual survey of the outfall sewer possibilities here has ever been made either by Mr. Clyde C. Kennedy in April 1932 or by Mr. H. F. Gray in June of 1936.

Mr. Gray says in his report of June 4th that such a survey would cost at least $1800.00 and is therefore not warranted.

Chairman Hugh Comstock at the meeting August 13th placed the cost at from $3500 to $3800. but Mr. Gray at the close of that meeting placed it at about $300.

We of course do not pretend to know which, if any, of these figures are correct. We feel however that inasmuch as the Sanitary Board expects to spend upwards of $60,000. installing a land type disposal plant with an annual operating cost of over $3000.00, they owe it to the taxpayers of this district to thoroughly investigate the outfall type and provide RELIABLE FIGURES as to its costs before placing a bond issue before the voters.

Yours very truly,
WILLIAM P. SILVA
KENT W. CLARK

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

The New Dealers are not adverse to good clean fun on the race tracks. WPA put aside $4,625 of the taxpayers' money to improve a race track at Dayton, Ohio. The sponsors of the project put up only $45.

The little things do not escape the New Dealers in their ridiculous expenditures. WPA with the aid of President Roosevelt allocated $1,349 to paint the fire hydrants in Wilmington, Del.

In Louisville, Ky., among the work relief projects approved by the President, is one calling for the expenditure of $4,368 to renovate the books in the city's libraries.

In the Borough of Queens, N. Y., early in October, federal funds amounted to $500,000 to make the bridle paths more attractive.

Out in Yavapai county, Arizona, are two unincorporated communities known as Skull Valley and Yava. There are eighty residents in Skull Valley; seventy-five in Yava. Some times they visit each other. The road between the towns was rough. Cost to the Government $81,611; cost to Skull Valley and Yava nothing—for improvement of the road.

The federal treasury kicked in $46,690 to build two islands in Indian Lake State Park in Washington township, Logan county, Ohio.

Californians believe there is nothing needed to beautify their home state. Mr. Roosevelt, however, apparently believes otherwise because he decided to spend about $15,000 to make ornamental borders of shrubbery along county grounds and roads at San Bernardino.

Taxpayers with a sense of the aesthetic doubtless will not mind making up the $14,762 necessary to build a lily pond at Placerville, California, nor will they be alarmed at the expenditure of $1,265 of Federal funds for a community poultry house at New Lisbon, New Jersey. Or will they?
